The Coming of Christ

Tell us when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of thy coming and of the end of the world? (Matthew 24:3)

Very profound scripture! I thought His coming would be a wonderful, joyful experience. Why are we longing for His coming, praying for His coming and traveling for Him to be formed in us when the fact is, our life will be totally destroyed with His coming?

Let us begin in the beginning. Unless our experience is personal, it means nothing. We all can put on the act of being a righteous Christian, but unless we have allowed the Holy Spirit to change our life totally, we are no more than mockers bringing forth rotten fruit. Remember, each time Jesus talked about His coming, He was standing right there talking to the disciples. So His coming that He talked about is an inward happening that affects each life individually.

For 2,000 years we have had revivals. Revivals only revive what is in the world. We are about to have a visitation! The difference is as drastic as night is compared to day. A visitation brings an end to your world. At the time of Noah we had a visitation. At the tower of Babel we had a visitation. When the children of Israel left Egypt there was a visitation. A visitation changes the laws, changes the priesthood, and destroys the world system...

- The world system where you get your energy and breath of life
- That world that has sin, hatred and evil
- The world that gets its energy from the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil
- The world that lies in the hands of the wicked one
- The world where our natural family is the center of our life
- The world that hates God and is ruled by the devil.

As long as you are in that world, your father is the devil, whether you are “born again”, Catholic, Muslim or Protestant. At the cross, that old world is annihilated.

- That world where all religions get their energy
- The world that is full of lust and greed
- The world where one marries and is given in marriage
- The world where the tares grow with the wheat
- The world where sin from the serpent courses through its blood.

Now when that world we live in is destroyed by His coming, we have no choice but either to perish with it or allow Him to transform us into a new creation so we can live in His world (Kingdom).

He told His disciples He would come with a sword, not to bring peace, but to bring one at odds with family members, one against another. Like the Tower of Babel, His sword will cause our language to change. You may all speak English, but the language will not be understood by those who have not received Him. Revivals do not do this... a visitation does.

Jesus said it would be a time like never before in human history, that He will come as a thief when no man knows the hour. He said the human race would travail and agonize like a woman in labor. He said many scary things to try and tell us about this awesome time.

Now, let me tell you why we all long for His coming, devastating as it is. It is built into our spiritual genes like the oak tree is in the acorn and the acorn longs to become that for which it was created. Also, remember for those who have that faith to turn a seed into a tree, the result of the changes are eternal. There is no more sorrow. The curse is gone. God becomes a friend and you will be in His house eternally. Joy, peace and righteousness make up your new world. Your death to all your old life has indeed brought you into the new world where sorrow and sadness are no more — This wonderful place Christ has prepared for us — called Heaven.

Jesus said, “First the natural, then the spiritual.” The flood in the Midwest is a natural happening, depicting what is to happen in the spirit. I hear tapes and the preachers and teachers are all saying, “Let us pray we are part of the next move.” I promise, scout’s honor, you will be part of it, for better or for worse. Pray you make the changes necessary to enter His Kingdom, which by the way, is the force already at work and which will ultimately destroy the world.

Remember, God did not give His Son so as to make better Catholics or Protestants, Muslims or Jews out of us. He says there was nothing good in us, and decided to wipe out the old and make a new creation.

God bless you, and please, lean not on your own understanding, as He comes to direct our path into Life.
