Hello fellow sojourners,

I recently received a letter from one of our fellow sojourners asking me to tell him about God, and thought you all might appreciate the answer:

You asked me to tell you about God. So here goes — the Bible in one short story.

This is a continued love story we are being involved in. "For God so loved the world, He gave His Son." Now that is a scripture but it is so Christian and so rather vague.

Let me tell you a much deeper understanding of who He is and how He wants us to be filled with His glory. Now that puts Him right in our ball park and we have to deal with this holy God. Yes, Jesus Christ is the Son of God. But that is not the point. The point is He wants you to be the son of God, just like your older brother, Jesus.

Now we have God right down where we all live. And lo and behold, He is a consuming fire, He is whole, or holy, and He does not change. So to get to know Him and hold His glory, we must change. The world as we know it is history just as the Jewish world was 2000 years ago.

Look at the mighty oak tree that God has created and tell me how it got to be what it is and how it knew enough to stop growing when it did and how it knows enough to drop its leaves and sleep in the long winter nights. And then, pray tell me how that bitsy acorn has hidden inside its shell the monstrous, intelligent tree.

That my dear sojourner is you. You are a seed that God has impregnated to bring forth the mighty Christ filled with His glory. If you seek first the kingdom of God, He will not only lead you in the right direction, He will take care of you like a son. You must acknowledge Him in all things, good, bad, and do not try to understand. He knows what is best for you. Till we meet again, my love burns brightly.

Marie
